THE CHIEF

THE SENIOR CLASS
of The Greenville High School

With the Aid and Assistance of the STUDENTS of the GREENVILLE
-:- -:- HIGH SCHOOL -:- -:-

VOLUME XV MAY, 1925

Allen County Public Library
Ft. Wayne, Indiana

ZACHARY LANSDOWNE was born and reared in Greenville. He left here shortly before his graduation from High School, having received an appointment to Annapolis Naval Academy. Since this time he has been engaged continually in the service. "Zach" entered the naval air service when the World War broke out, and he has since risen to fame in this department. He was one of the few men who were privileged to make the first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, doing this in the British dirigible R-34. In 1924 he was placed in command of the Shenandoah, the United States' giant dirigible, and has remained in that position to the present. Early last fall, during the trans-continental flight of his ship, "Zach" greatly honored Greenville by bringing the "Daughter of the Skies" many miles out of her course to fly over the home of his mother and his boyhood friends.

We wish to dedicate this "Chief" not to Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the Shenandoah, but to "Zach," Greenville's honored son.

Foreword

ANOTHER year has gone by and another "Chief" is in your hands. We have endeavored to make this book complete in every detail and have tried to include every incident of the school year twenty-four-twenty-five. It has been our aim to make this "Chief" "bigger and better" in every way. We hope you may find in its pages a history of your high school days, that will not only please you now, but in future years will bring back precious memories of happy hours spent in G. H. S. We submit for your approval the "Chief of Twenty-Five."

WITH many regrets, the class of 1925 now realizes that its high school career is at an end; that four of its happiest years are over. Mingled with our regrets, however, is a feeling of anticipation for the years to come, and of hope that they will prove as happy as those spent in Greenville High School.

While we are not so conceited as to think ourselves the most brilliant of the classes to graduate from this school, we do feel that we are equally as good. We are represented in practically all the organizations, and have been especially active in athletics this year. Such men as Tillman, Witters, Eidson, and Pierron will be badly missed next year. Such girls as York, Strohaver, Bayman, Winters, Harsh, Wright, and Mangan are largely responsible for Greenville's reputation of having one of the best girls' basket ball teams in this section of the country.

In all our four years in high school we have had no parties which were enjoyed as much as the two this year. The one, a Hallowe'en party, was held at the home of Elsie Ruh. The other was a St. Patricks party given in the school cafeteria.

As the class of 1925 bids you farewell, it extends its best wishes to the future students of Greenville High School, and wants you to know how proud it is of being the first class to graduate from the new building.

RED LETTER DAY IN GREENVILLE'S HISTORY

Dedication of New City Hall

The residents of the city have long looked forward to this day when the magnificent stone structure known as the city hall, should be completed and ready for use. Those having the work in charge are to be congratulated for the speed with which they have pushed it forward. The architect, Edward Beichler, deserves special mention for the remarkable genius he has displayed in designing a building of such imposing and artistic proportions.

At the dedicatory exercises there were four principal addresses. Hon. Jerome Goubeaux, mayor of the city, at once caught and held the attention of the large audience present by his masterly presentation of the subject, "Greenville, Yesterday and Today." Mary Strohaver, President of Council, won much applause throughout her discourse on "The Ideal City." Senator-elect, Ray Nauss, discussed with much feeling some important national policies. All this served only as an introduction to the chief address of the occasion which was delivered by Alice York, Governor of Ohio, on the subject, "Where, Oh! Where, shall we Park Our Cars?"
Much public spirit was manifested throughout the exercises and the occasion will long be remembered by all those interested in the future of our fair city.

THE NEW AMENDMENT

A Great Wrong Righted

(Special radio dispatch to the Times from Joe Ashley O'Brien, press correspondent of the Washington Post.)
Washington D. C., April 1, 1950.

The twenty-fifth amendment has been ratified by all the states and has become a part of the national constitution. It reads: "Now, henceforth and forever, a woman, even tho she is married, shall retain her maiden name." The law went into effect immediately after its enactment and a severe penalty will be imposed upon those who, knowingly or unknowingly, violate it. There is general rejoicing among the members of the fair sex because of this latest addition to a Woman's rights.

TRAGEDY NARROWLY AVERTED

Automobile and North Bound Express Collide

As the "Five o'clock Flier" on the D. & U. was speeding across East Fourth street a "Ford six" driven by Robert Pease crashed into it. The impact was sudden and severe. The car was completely wrecked and the injured occupant was taken to the office of Dr. George Matchett where his wounds received skillful attention. His injuries proved to be painful but not serious.

NOTED ATHLETE SPEAKS HERE

Howard Tillman, better known as "Tilly", a former resident of Greenville and very noted athlete, spoke before the Kiwanis Club at their regular noon day luncheon at the Elks Club. He gave a very interesting talk on "Improvement in Athletics in the Last Twenty-five Years."

In the afternoon he spoke before the high school on "Athletics in G. H. S. in 1925." Mr. Tillman graduated in that year and told the students many strange and interesting things about the customs of that time. Although he talked fully an hour his remarks were nevertheless appreciated, by the Seniors at least, for they were scheduled to take a history examination under the venerable Prof. Allen during the period.

EASY MONEY

$2500 offered in prizes to students

Fred Mains, an alumnus of G. H. S. has just made public a most interesting and philanthropic plain. During the past twenty-five years he has amassed a fortune broadcasting his rich tenor voice. It is said by those who seem to know that he is worth about three million dollars. He wants to rid himself of this small fortune while he is still living but cannot decide what method will accomplish the most good. Therefore he has offered a prize of $2000 for the best suggestion on what to do with his money, and also a second prize of $500 for the second best suggestion. Only G. H. S. students may compete. For further information address his private secretary, Mildred Wolfe, Ennyold Street, Jaysville, Ohio.

EDITORIALS

Evidences of the return of spring are seen everywhere. The balmy breezes whisper it, the budding trees tell it, the birds sing it, the poets feel it. Even the editor has sensed it and is offering, with apologies to poets of every clime and every age, an effusive outburst of overpowering emotion.

It was the spring of '25
We graduated then,
We studied history and math
With teachers, mostly men.

Old G. H. S. had just been built,
'Twas very, very, new.
School spirit was a living thing,
And knocks, indeed, were few.

The foot ball games were great events,
With rooters to inspire,
No matter what the weather was,
E'en wading through the mire.

The gym was crowded every night
When basket ball was played,
The citizens were mighty proud
Of every boy and maid.

Some happy years have passed since then,
We've wandered devious ways,
But memory oft takes us back
To those inspiring days.

The readers of the "Times" are to be congratulated upon the opportunities offered to them in our department "Questions and Answers." If there is anything you wish to know about farms, or love, or stocks, or philosophy, or girls, write to this department and your communication will be given the most serious consideration. If you cannot understand the answers, buy an unabridged dictionary and use freely.

GIFT TO HIGH SCHOOL

Generosity of the Class of 1925

The friends of G. H. S. will be glad to hear of a recent munificent gift of $50,000 to be used in equipping the cafeteria and furnishing a teacher's rest room, two outstanding needs for more efficient work in high school circles. This comes as the gift of the class of 1925 and is a testimonial of their deep love for their Alma Mater.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

DEAR EDITOR—I have been calling on a girl for twenty-five years. I like her very much but she has red hair. Is it true that red haired girls have fiery tempers?

Dan Witters

ANSWER—This question is of paramount importance. Naturally, in your innocence and inexperience you would be perplexed. You will need sympathetic help in solving your dilemma. I would refer you to the eminent mind reader and fortune teller, Mademoiselle, Eunice Wehrley, No. 9, Bimm Building, Dayton, Ohio.

DEAR EDITOR—Can you suggest some subjects suitable for discussion when young men are calling? It's always so hard to keep up the conversation. Oh! those awful pauses!

Yours in distress,
Evelyn Kester

ANSWER—This weighty question will be answered in our next issue.

DEAR EDITOR—Enclosed you will find ten cents and a two cent stamp. Please send the latest thing in cross-word puzzles. When did they come into general use?

Letitia Haines

ANSWER—They were much used in 1925 and were supposed by some to have been one of the "after-effects" of the World War.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to know whether bobbed hair will be in vogue this year. All my friends wanted me to have my hair bobbed when I graduated from high school and, not wishing to act hastily, I am still considering it.

Mary Lacy

ANSWER—Do not risk a bob now, Mary, for Paris ruled many years ago that bobbed hair must go the way of all fads. There is no evidence that it will return soon and stock in hair pin factories is at a premium.

DEAR EDITOR—I am very deeply in love with a charming woman ten years my senior and would like your advice on how to propose to her in a graceful way. Would you suggest that I kneel or merely hold her hand?

Sheridan Yount

ANSWER—It is no longer good form for men to do the proposing.

DEAR EDITOR—I received a letter from a gentleman and it was signed in red ink. My heart tells me that this has some deep significance. Will you tell me what it means?

Lucille Fox

ANSWER—We can best tell you in the words of a great philosopher. "Not knowing, I feel a hesitancy in articulating, fearing that I may divulge something which I may not be able to substantiate."

PERSONALS

Misses Thelma Ludy and Margaret Snyder, also Mr. Raymond Alexander, have received very high honors in the National Shorthand and Typewriting Contest held in New York last week.

Dr. Minor McCool, now occupying the chair of psychology in Columbia University has been renewing Greenville acquaintances this week. Mrs. McCool accompanied him.

Anna Mosby, a finished violinist, played before a large and appreciative audience in Chicago Wednesday evening.

The administration of Pres. C. L. Bailey has been very successful.
O. S. U. is doing excellent work.
Columbus Dispatch

County Commissioners Elsie Johnson, Jeanette Harp, and Herman Karn and Prosecuting Attorney George Eidson are in Celina today. No, they are not fishing. They are visiting the Mercer county court house, gathering ideas for the new fire-proof court house to be erected in Greenville within the next half century.

Hugh Tearney sang at the Rotary Club banquet. His rendition of "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" elicited much applause. Miss Ruth Mangan accompanied him.

The many friends of Hester Winters, the famous interpretative dancer, will be glad to know that she has arrived in New York from a successful European trip. It is rumored that the King of England gave her several audiences and always occupied his box in state when she was booked to appear. It will be remembered that the English monarch, then Prince of Wales, was a devotee of the art of dancing when he visited this country twenty-five years ago.

Among those attending the meeting of the Most Excellent Order of Basket Ball Fans, being held in New Madison this week, are Arvilla Bayman, Ethel Harsh, and Nellie Wright.

COURT NEWS

Probate Judge, Gerhardt Buchy, will hold court all day Friday and Saturday to clear the docket of the many cases in domestic relations now pending.

A compromise was affected in the case of Robert Hawes vs Leo Rehmert for shooting with intent to hit. Attorney for plantiff was Lawrence Mills; attorney for defendant, Bessie Bonta.

Miss Dorothy Lacy, was fined $100 and costs for parking in the fire zone.

A marriage license was issued to Juanita Shields and (?). The groom gave his age as fifty-three. The age of the bride is not known.

The names of Mauree Powell, Genevieve Young, Ada Nevel, Evora Sothoron, and Donald Mathews were drawn to serve on the grand jury for the spring term of court.

THE GREENVILLE TIMES

SOCIETY

One of the leading social events of the season was a 6 o'clock dinner given at the Country Club last night by the members of the Eta Pi fraternity.

A delicious dinner was served by the cateresses, Kathryn Folkerth and Wilda Weybright. This was followed by dancing and cards. The music was furnished by the Jazzy Five Orchestra, the members of which are Earl Burnett, Herman Feierstein, Milton Jefferis, Harrison Wilson and Leano Sedgwick.

Prizes were won by Miss Martha Moran and Mr. Leonard Pierron.

Miss Ruth Lonas entertained several guests at a week end party at her suburban home last week. Those receiving invitations were Helen Brewer, Mable Petry, Augusta Shultz, Elizabeth Snyder and Constance Kerlin.

Miss Violet Waggoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Waggoner of this city was married last week to a wealthy movie star of Hollywood, California. It will be remembered that Miss Waggoner went West in 1928 and made a great success as a teacher. The name of the fortunate man has not been learned.

The Greenville dramatic club will present to the public in the near future one of Barrie's plays. Leading parts will be taken by Mary Rhoades, Elsie Ruh, Mary Lightner, Robert Bishop and Paul Folkerth.

IN MEMORY OF

Inasmuch as youth is a time upon which memory loves to linger,

Inasmuch as school days are happy days, and,

Inasmuch as school friends are not soon forgotten,

Therefore, this issue of the "GREENVILLE TIMES," with all it contains of nonsense, is dedicated in loving remembrance of the Class of 1925, which for loyalty, enthusiasm, and class spirit has been surpassed by none.

Junior Class

RICHARD ENGELKEN, President
CECIL HELLER, Vice-President
JOHN VANCE, Secretary
NORMA LYTLE, Treasurer

ONE balmy September morning, three years ago, the present Junior Class emerged from their prehistoric period of development and entered that grand old institution of learning, Greenville High School. Our Freshman year was full of Freshmen blunders, but we soon proved to the teachers that first impressions are not always true ones. The shyness and greenness disappeared and we took another step in life. Our sophomore year was eventful, for we were intent on acquiring the maximum amount of knowledge in the minimum amount of time.

How delightful it was to return last fall as Juniors, especially as we had a wonderful new building to explore. We feel that we have risen above all the childish conceits and contentions of the Freshmen and Sophomores. How serenely we watch them strut around, because we realize that we are now "upperclassmen."

We Juniors are recognized as possessing many talents which we are striving to develop. In the class room we are among the best students in the school. Our musical ability is displayed in the Orchestra and Glee Club. Athletics would be damaged considerably were Engelken, Batten, Winters, Reck, Williams, Bell, Horn, and Starr absent. In the Art Department also, many Juniors are seen laboring.

Our social affairs were not so numerous, but we celebrated Hallowe'en by a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Menke. About the first of March we began to plan for the Junior-Senior reception which will be given commencement week. We feel that this will be a fitting flourish for the close of our "Junior year."

THE Class of 1927 entered school last fall with the customary zeal and earnestness of the true Sophomore. We are ambitious to make our class colors, red and gray, shine a little brighter than the rest. However, I will not look very far into the future for fear that a few of us may be a severe disappointment to those who have entertained high hopes.

Our two class parties this year have been thoroughly enjoyed by all attendants. The first, a Hallowe'en party, was given in the cafeteria, and the second, a party given by the Sophomore Literary Societies, was held in the gymnasium.

We Sophomores are taking part in practically all school activities, especially athletics. Our best athletes in football and basket ball are Herbert Reck, Ray Nicholson, Virgil Sellman, and Wayne Wilson. We shall try to keep up our good work and thus make an enviable record.

OF the Freshman Class there is little to be said, for it is better that we should speak, not of the little we have been able to do for our High School during the year, but of what we intend to do for her in years to come. At an early meeting we were permitted to organize and elect our class officers.

We held our first party on Hallowe'en night in the new gymnasium. We owe our good time to those on the various committees and to the chaperons, Miss Murphy, Miss Whiteley, Mr. Gray, and Mr. Phelps. Our next party was held in the Band room of the Memorial Hall. Our chaperons were Miss Murphy, Mr. Davis, and Mr. Gray.

We are represented in all the activities of the school and take great pride in the work of William Brown, Jack Tutwiler, and Carlton Coppock in football. Although we have not made our presence felt, we sincerely hope that in 1928 the Greenville High School may have been bettered to some slight degree for our having existed.

La Sociedad Castellana

LA Sociedad Castellana tiene en su lista este ano a eso de ciento cincuenta socios. Al primer mitin fueron elegidos los siguientes: Presidente, Tom Kerlin; Vice-Presidente, Maria Rhoades; Secretaria, Alicia York; Tesorera, Maria Strohaver.

Los alumnos de espanol publican la revista escolar, El Loro, este ano lo mismo como en el ano pasado. Cada semana recibmos La Prensa, diario espanol para el uso en las clases. Este ano logramos en organizar la union nacional de organizaciones espanolas en las escuelas superiores.

La primera funcion del ano escolar fue un "hike", a un lugar muy conocido, La "Pumping Station." Fue un gran exito, y muchos socios asistieron. Alrededor de la hoguera cantabamos canciones espanolas.

Unas semanas despues habia otro "hike." Esta vez seguimos a nuestro jefe, proque no supimos en donde estuvimos por ir. Marchamos diez kilometros hasta llegar a una hoguera prendida por la comision de alimentos, que nos proprocionaron muy buena comida.

Habia dos tertulias. Una tuvo lugar en el Memorial Hall en la semana del Dia de Gracias. Aunque el tiempo hacia muy mojado, y desagradable, el espiritu de la muchadumbre no la era.

La otra tuvo lugar en la casa de don Rodolfo Wiebusch. Asistieron unos sesenta socios. Habia muchos juegos interesantes. Se servia una comida muy sabrosa. Se dice que era la mejor tertulia que ha gozado la Sociedad.

Los socios que partimos de la escuela este ano nunca olvidaremos las actividades de La Sociedad Castellana, y creemos que los estudiantes de los anos que vienen iran mejorandolas.

The Art Club

EDWARD BEICHLER, President
TOM KERLIN, Vice-President
JOHN VANCE, Secretary
HAROLD CANNEY, Treasurer

THE Art Club has had the most successful year in its history. Special programs were prepared for the meetings which were held regularly twice a month. Early in the year, the Kiwanis Club solicited the Art Department for posters to advertise a home talent show which was to be given at the Memorial Hall for charitable purposes. Over two-hundred and fifty posters were designed by the pupils for this occasion.

In December, the pupils entered models carved from soap, in the National Soap Sculpture Exhibit which was held at The Art Center, New York City. Seven of their pieces were entered in the catalogue, and one received special mention in the New York Times Tribune. From the seven hundred models displayed, one hundred were selected to be shown in the leading museums of the country during the coming year. The club was fortunate in having one piece chosen for this display. During the snow season, the club built animals of snow, and to their delight found several dogs barking at the snow dog. The Kindergarten teacher took her pupils to see the dog, and it received many a pat from small hands.

The year has not been lacking in social functions. In the fall, there were three sketching hikes. The annual banquet was held in January, and fifty-eight of the sixty-nine members were present. In every way the year has been a successful one.

EUNICE WEHRLEY, Vice-President
HESTER WINTERS, Secretary
IRENE DAVISON, Treasurer

THE Home Economics Club is a comparatively new organization, having been founded three years ago by Miss Patrick. This year, under the supervision of Miss Burt, it was reorganized and a new constitution adopted.

The social event of the season was a backwards party to which each member brought a guest. It is hoped that this will not be the extent of our social activities, and we look forward to many more delightful affairs.

MOUREE POWELL, '25.

Le Cercle Francais

AS "Le Cercle Francais" in the past two years of its organization has proved to be of great value in making the study of French more enjoyable, it was reorganized this year. The officers elected were: George Matchett, President; Ruth Mangan, Vice-President; Dorothy Lacey, Secretary; Roy McEowen, Treasurer. The meetings of the club have been held the third Monday of each month, and are always looked forward to by the members, for the programs are very interesting and instructive.

Although much stress is placed upon the educational benefits of this club, nevertheless the social side has not been neglected. Last year the crowning success of the social season was a party held in the Memorial Hall. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed playing the French games, participating in the contests, and eating the refreshments. Much credit is due our instructor, Miss Lindsey, who has taken much interest in the activities of this club.

Sodalitas Latina

ARVILLA BAYMAN, President
GEORGE MATCHETT, Vice-President
MABEL METCALFE, Secretary
JEROME GOUBEAUX, Treasurer

MUCH has been said and written recently about the value of a classical education and especially about the importance of an understanding of Latin which was once the universal language of all scholars. It is generally admitted that everyone who possibly can, should study Latin for at least four years because it will help him to understand and appreciate English, which is half Latin. Many of our most beautiful words and most interesting expressions are Latin derivatives. For instance, some of the words used above have an interesting meaning. Anyone who has studied Latin knows that "appreciate" comes from a Latin word meaning "to put a price to;" that "value" is derived from a Latin word meaning "to be strong" and from this same Latin stem there come the words "valiant" and "invalid," not strong. If you have a knowledge of Latin when you see the word "magnavox" you immediately think of a "great voice." The word education itself comes from a Latin word meaning "to lead out."

It was to emphasize the practical as well as the cultural value of Latin that Miss Lindsey organized the Latin club two years ago. Frequent meetings have been held and by singing Latin songs, by discussing the customs of those days, and by studying posters of various kinds, we have learned that Latin is not a "dead Language" but that it is a wide awake and vital force at work in the world today.

It has been the custom of this club to hold one special social event each year. This is held near the end of the second term and is always attended by a large and enthusiastic crowd of those who have crossed the Rhone with Caesar, taken flights of oratory with Cicero, and roamed the seas with Aeneas.

MABEL METCALFE, '25

The Band

THE Greenville High School Band is steadily growing in number and popularity. It has played at all of our home football and basketball games, and taken part in the dedication of Harmon Field.

The band is now fully equipped with uniforms which were made possible by the proceeds from a series of concerts given by the Music Department of our high school. Much of our success is due to the splendid ability and untiring effort of Mr. Messinger.

The Dramatic Music Club

UNDER the supervision of our music instructor, Mr. Messinger, the Boys' Glee Club united with the Girls' Senior Glee Club and formed a new organization which is known as "The Dramatic Music Club."

After much comment and many discussions, the club decided to give the Spanish light opera, "The Toreadors." The parts were assigned and the work began. It will be presented to the public during commencement week.

The club meets regularly every Thursday evening after school, under the efficient supervision of our musical director, Mr. Messinger. Although a very lively interest has been shown in the club, our public appearances have been limited to one performance in chapel during National Education Week.

Senior Orchestra

BECAUSE of the splendid leadership of Mr. Messinger and the co-operation of the students, we feel that we have produced an orchestra which deserves worthy comment. Twice during the scholastic year, the orchestra has had the opportunity of displaying its talent before the public. When it played during the Kiwanis noon hour luncheon, its efforts were very much appreciated. During the annual Farm Bureau meeting the orchestra again entertained an appreciative audience.

At the present time the members are practicing with much diligence for a concert to be given by the Music Department. We feel sure that success is inevitable.

PERHAPS the musical organization which furnishes the most enjoyment for its members is the Junior Orchestra. It is composed of forty-nine Junior High School pupils. On Singing to Oneself

SINGING is a most difficult art to pursue. Drawing is undoubtly much easier it has fewer enemies and occasions less malice. While one is engaged in drawing he is quiet and unobtrusive and often has a meek and gentle aspect. But in singing conditions are the reverse. The elasticity of the mouth, which Mr. Messinger assures us is necessary for good singing, and gives the average person a ludicrous, if not ferocious appearance. But in singing to oneself one need not be greatly concerned about his appearance. but he should give attention rather to the tone of the voice and his dexterity in keeping the tune. Still, if one cannot keep a tune well he is not obsolutely disqualified for singing to himself. There is a way of getting around his obstacle. Say, for instance, when singing "My Old Kentucky Home," if one should suddenly find himself on lower C the best and only way out of the situation is to start "Old Black Joe." Thus, both his dignity and self esteem are preserved.

Know your limits. Never sing too high or too low, too soft or too loud. Remember the voice can be cracked as well as the head, one by singing too loud and the other by the neighbor in the next flat.

There is another thing I ought to have said. Never try to compose. It can't be done.

PERNA KRICK.

Way of Approach

WHEN at the appointed hour of the engagement, he went to her house and the romance began. He acted as punctually as a bill collector, while she tried to put him off. Becoming as nervous as a man in a telephone booth he said, "Flossie, I love you!" Her lips quivered like a Ford, and the look in her eyes was as far off as Boston.

"Ah, marry me!" he pleaded, his voice sounding as hollow as an empty barrel.

He edged nearer to her and gazed anxiously into her face in the way a person in a taxi-cab gazes at the face of the meter. He put his arms around her waist. Yielding suddenly, like a treacherous garter, she murmured, in a voice as soft as stale crackers, while tears rushed to her eyes, "I am yours." And she clung to him like barbed wire. It must be true; its all in the way of approach.

RENO TEAFORD, '25.

The Rime of the Ancient Cross Word Fan

It was an Ancient Cross Word Fan,
And he stoppeth one of three,
Which of you may have a paper,
A Puzzle within for me?

The boy then answered him
In accents dole and grim,
We have them not, quoth he,
Your chance for one is slim.

The pang, the course, with which he stared,
That boy let not away,
He could not draw his eyes from his,
I'll get one if I may.

O! Dream of joy, is this indeed,
A Cross Word Puzzle I see?
Is this the paper, this the page
It surely cannot be.

Farewell! Farewell! But this I tell
To thee thou scurvy boy,
He worketh best, who knoweth best
Then Puzzles are a joy.

MATCHETT, '25. Rah

Candy

CANDY can either be sucked, chewed or allowed to melt and run down, depending on what kind it is. The most interesting is the kind that melts and runs down, like chocolate creams, but the best wearing kind is the kind you can suck, like sour balls. Some fellows can make a sour ball last an hour by just not working it too hard, and they get great pleasure in taking it out every once in a while to see how much smaller it is and if its color has changed any. The saddest moment of a sour ball is when it gets so small it can't do anything else but disappear.

The strangest kind of candy to bite into is assorted chocolates, because you never know what they're stuffed with till you bite and look. There are two things you can find or both, loose juice and cherries. Then if you're disappointed you can exchange the other half with somebody who's got another half that you like and he doesn't. When people eat assorted chocolates whole, without caring what they're stuffed with, it's a sign they're getting old and careless.

The stingiest kind of candy to eat is all-day suckers, because you can suck one right in front of somebody's face and know he has too much pride to ask you for any of it. The thing to say when you are eating an all-day sucker is "I'm sorry. I started to suck this or I would offer you some."

If you are eating a peppermint stick and anybody asks you for a bite it is safer to hold your thumb so he can't bite off too big a piece without biting your thumb. This also gives you a chance to get mad and change your mind about giving him a bite. Of course it all depends on whether you are a quicker jerker than he is a biter.

THE SHENANDOAH PASSES OVER THE HOMETOWN

The Mirror of Life

"BEASTLY---absolutely beastly," muttered Mr. R. MacClarn Harmon, as he thought of the state of his finances. He was so emphatic that his monocle dropped from its insecure position and dangled on its slender ribbon over his dove gray cravat. "Bah jove!" he continued. "I thought I could weather the frost but---it's rotten——it's——it's---."

Of course you've guessed that Mr. Harmon was an Englishman. Oh yes, he came from the very best branch of English aristocrats, or so he would tell you.

By this time Mr. Harmon, monocle, cravat, cane and spats was strolling slowly down Broadway. He continually removed his "topper" in response to the "Good-evening, Mr. Harmon's" that were accompanied by the charming smiles and rustle of skirts. He reached his hotel, got his key and went up to his room. He was thinking deeply. Glancing at his reflection in the mirror, he observed, "We'll see if we can't solve the problem---eh---wot?"

Reggie was always on intimate terms with his mirror because it never answered back like the impertinent bounders one met, and the look he saw there was always an approving one. He bathed, took his tea, looked out the window, lounged around the room, settled himself in an armchair and puffed at his briar. What? Oh, of course it was imported.

He sat silent, his chin buried in his chest. His pipe went out. But what matter? The problem was solved at last. He arose, went to his dresser, opened a drawer and drew out half a dozen photographs. These he arranged on the shelf above the fireplace. Then retreating he gazed at them quizzically. Of course they were all of the fairer sex.

"Hmm," he muttered, "let me see, there's Madeline Grey---her mother---no I couldn't stand her---she's too obese."

"Now there's Louise Wells,---decent girl, but---well, I can't have an actress."

"Next we have the Sidney sisters. Either would do---not much money. Very unfortunate."

"Antoinette D'Aubey---h-m---father's a broker---very good---but wait---she's got a deuced bad temper---no go old dear---beastly luck."

"Ah---Mary Campbell---Scotch---very wealthy---father's a cheese manufacturer. Yes, Reggie, it'll be Mary."

A month had passed since his soliloquy and he was again speaking to his mirror.

"Well, old top, I think it'll come to a show-down---perhaps tonight. Father and mother rave and plead but Mary has a will of her own. Reggie, you have the winning hand."

Mr. R. MacClarn Harmon awoke the next day, took his breakfast and looked at his mail. There was only one letter. He read it once, twice, half a dozen times. He strode to his mirror and looked at his eyes. He re-read the letter. Mr. Harmon said things a gentleman wouldn't say. Now why did Mary Campbell want their engagement broken? Why? Why? Why?----Oh blazes, he might as well see her and knock that nonsense out of her head. The idea---silly little fool---she seemed pleased enough last night. Well he'd soon settle it. She'd have to be sensible---money didn't grow on bushes nowadays.

Mr. Harmon called. The lady was out. He called again. She wasn't in. He called yet again but this time the stately butler had been supplanted by the wealthy cheese manufacturer himself. Nothing is known of the interview except that Reggie left in great haste.

The next day he wrote a diplomatic letter to the fair Mary in which he demanded a reason for the severing of their engagement. Several days later he received an answer. He read it avidly. He read it again. He wept, he called himself a fool. He cursed and he raved but it was all clear to him now.

Of course he remembered. That night after he had held her in his arms and dreamed of the dowry she would bring, and had walked to the mirror just back of her and had stood twisting his mustaches, he had winked at himself. Of course he had. But good Lord! how was he to know that she was re-touching her lips after the damage he'd done and that the mirror of her vanity case caught the reflection? Blast the infernal things anyway---there wasn't any sense in carrying them around---his mother hadn't used one---they ought not to allow it either. What was the difference if he did wink at himself? Couldn't a man do as he pleased without people jumping at bally conclusions about his motives? What if he did intend to marry her for her money---a man had to live didn't he? She couldn't expect him to live on love, could she? If he didn't get it somebody else would. He'd always known girls were queer but he hadn't thought Mary was that kind. Well you never could tell---it was a good thing he'd found out what she was before he'd married her. Nawsty thing---letting a chap down like that. She'd just as soon ruin a man's life as not---didn't care if she did break his heart. Well, there are plenty of other girls that'd jump at the chance to marry him. He'd show her.

An hour later Mr. R. MacClarn Harmon had lost his closest and most intimate friend. The friend lay shattered and glistening at his feet. He gave a sardonic laugh, kicked the tiny chips of broken glass and strode rapidly from the room.

Football

THE Football Team went through a hard schedule of ten games, winning seven losing two and tying one. All of their victories were won by decisive scores and in only one game, that with Miamisburg, were they outplayed.

A record of scoring 365 points to their opponents 59 shows that they were the greatest offensive team that ever represented Greenville High School.

The team's success can be attributed to two things: the willingness of the men on the squad to work hard and learn to do as much as possible and the systems of instruction used by Coach Franklin.

Of the seventeen men who were awarded letters, nine graduated in June. They were: Tillman, Witters, Eidson, Jenkinson, Hawes, Folkerth, Nauss, Matchett, Passon and Buchy. The letter men who will be eligible next fall are: Williams, Engleken, Batten, Hilbert Reck, Herbert Reck, Nicholson, Sellman, and Brown.

Football 1924

September 20. Bradford at Bradford

The team was in poor condition for the opening game of the season since they had only one weeks practice. As a result they were held to a score-less tie by a plainly inferior but scrappy team.

September 27. Celina at Greenville

Celina came with the reputation of being a worthy opponent of our squad but that did not prove to be the case. The Green and White team uncovered a clever offense and scored a total of 68 points in fifty minutes of rather uninteresting play.

October 11. Troy at Greenville

Troy vs. Greenville. Two ancient rivals. A perfect football day. School spirit at its height. A great team beaten beyond hope by an even greater one. What could be sweeter than a 41–0 victory over Troy?

By defeating the Southwestern Ohio Champions by such an overwhelming score the team surprised even its most hopeful followers and showed itself to be in the running for the title.

October 17. Xenia at Xenia

Xenia high school football teams have a splendid reputation for they have twice held the Southwestern Ohio Championship in the last three years, but they proved to be no match for the Greenville team. They were easily defeated by a score of 27–0.

October 25. Van Wert at Van Wert

According to all advance information the Van Wert High School squad was unbeatable. They possessed a team which had been undefeated for two years and were well on their way toward the completion of another perfect season. However, all good things have an end and the Greenville eleven played great against an experienced team that out-weighed them twenty pounds to the man and put an end to Van Werts' continuous success by a score of 28-0.

November 1. Piqua at Piqua

Greenville's aspiration for the title received a severe jolt at Piqua, where, after having gained a comfortable lead of 13–0 in the first half they went completely to pieces and lost by a score 26–19 after one of the most hard fought games in the history of the two schools.

November 6. Versailles at Greenville

The Versailles team was a husky one and full of fight but their lack of coaching, conditioning and experience were very noticeable. Greenville, stung by the Piqua defeat, easily routed them by the one sided score of 48–0.

November 11. Alumni at Greenville

Playing against a team of ex-high school and college stars at the dedication of the Harmon Play-ground the High School squad showed excellent form in its 12–0 victory.

November 15. West Milton at Greenville

This game had all the characteristics of a track meet. The Green and White eleven scored a touchdown in the first thirty seconds of play and from them on crossed the West Milton goal line almost at will. The final score was 115–0.

November 22. Miamisburg at Miamisburg

The team went into the last game of the season with the Southwestern Ohio title at stake. They fought hard and until the last minute but were unable to cope with the superior experience and clever forward passing attack of Miamisburg team. The final score was 33-7.

Basketball 1924-1925

BASKETBALL has become one of the most popular sports in the middle west. Great crowds are present at every game. The township high school gym and the university coliseum are filled to overflowing almost nightly.

In Greenville the opening of the gymnasium in the new high school building began a season that was probably the most successful in the history of the school, both financially and from the standpoint of games won. The team won eleven of the fifteen games played. Miamisburg, Piqua and Troy, Greenville's three traditional rivals were defeated in close and interesting games. The Union City, Indiana High School team with a record of fifteen consecutive wins, was decisively beaten by a score of 39–26. Bradford was the only team able to defeat the Greenville team during the first half of the season. They won a rough game by three points.

At the end of the first semester Captain Witters, center of three years experience, became ineligible. This injured the morale and team play of the squad to such an extent that they lost the next game to Piqua by a score of 16–13. Then came the Union City victory and with it renewed confidence. The rest of the scheduled games turned out to be easy victories.

In the Southwestern Ohio Class A tournament at Dayton the team played very creditible basketball. Piqua was defeated in the first round by a score of 18–13. In the second round, Springfield a team of state championship calibre eliminated them by a score of 32-9.

Monroe, Darke County Champions, won a post season game by a score of 24–20.

Nearly all of the team were lost by graduation. Eidson, Tillman, Witters, Jenkison, Passon, Bell, Pierron and Teaford were all men of experience and dependability. Batten is the only regular who will report to Coach Franklin for the team next season.

Girls' Basketball

SINCE this is the first year for the girls to show their basketball ability, they set out with determination to make a record in this sport equal to that of the boys. On December the 12th they had the opportunity to show what they could accomplish by playing New Madison On account of their ideal floor and fast offensive work they started the game with a whirl. At the end the score was 21–14, showing that they had a victory for their first attempt; this gave them courage for their coming games.

The next game, played with Bradford on December the 19th, was a fast and exciting one. The Greenville team started out with high hopes but in the second half their opponents got ahead The girls kept up their spirit and succeeded in tying the score; by 12–12.

They next went to Pleasant Hill on January 9th with much pep, and determination to win the game. With fast team-work they succeeded in accomplishing their purpose by scoring 31 points to 18. The next week they won another easy victory from Palestine. The score was 30–4.

The game with Camden on January 30th was a victory for Greenville. Although they were defeated by the score of 29–5, the Camden girls showed a spirit of fine sportsmanship.

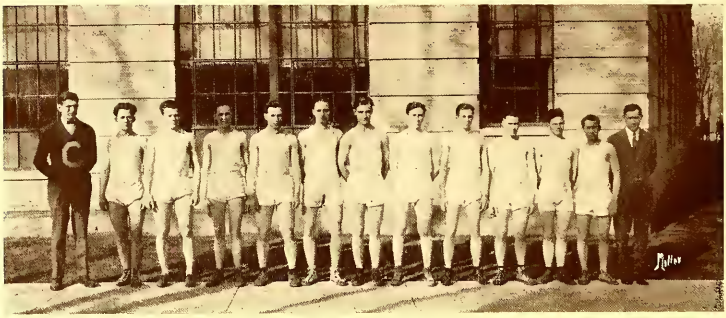
In the first half of the game with Gettysburg, the next week Greenville was far ahead. But by the end of the game Gettysburg brought their score up to 23 to Greenville 27.

Union City canceled the game on February 13th, but Greenville succeeded in getting a game with the Alumni. Most of them were fine players in their day, but were handicapped from lack of training and practice. Greenville won by the score of 32-6.

The second out-of-town game with Covington on February 20th, was still another victory, although we were handicapped by such a small floor. The score was 17-10.

Greenville was defeated by Arcanum on February 25th, by the score of 21–14. This considerably dampened the enthusiasm of the girls. But on March the 11th they put up a good fight against Monroe. The pass work on the part of the players was excellent. However they lost. The score was 22–10.

These were the only two games lost this season. That is a very remarkable record as it is the first time in years that the High School has had a girls' team that has played a regular schedule. And the team certainly appreciates the spirit showed by their fellow-students.



Track 1924

IN its second season of interscholastic competition the track team improved greatly and made a very good showing in several difficult contests.

The first meet of the season, that with Union City was easily won. The varsity scored 68½ points to Union City's 44½.

In the Western Ohio Track and Field meet at Piqua, Greenville finished in fourth place. Captain Winters set a new Western Ohio High School record of 10 feet and 6 inches in the Pole Vault.

The team finished fourth in the Southwestern Ohio Track and Field Meet at Miami University against such competitors as Steele, Stivers, St. Xaviers, Hamilton, Middletown, Cincinnati East, Troy, Piqua and Washington C. H.

Nine men were awarded letters, Captain Winters, Roscoe Beanblossom, Robert Beanblossom, Culbertson, Patty, Blocher, Tillman, Batten and Jenkinson. Of these nine only the last three named are available for the 1925 season.

Soccer

THE number of players out for soccer did not quite equal that of the previous year. They were enthusiastic over the fact that they would be able to have a "Varsity Basketball" team and were saving their strength and ambition to have a good team.

The first game was played at the Ball Park between the seniors and juniors. The juniors put up a strong fight but the seniors kicked the ball to the goal twice to the juniors once.

The sophomores and freshmen played the next game. The freshmen, anxious to display their ability to kick, showed the sophomores a hard fight. But by a last minute goal the sophomores won. The score was 7–5.

On Armistice Day at the dedication of the Harmon Field the seniors and sophomores played the championship game. The seniors' team proved to be a fast one and won by the score of 3–1.

Are Athletics Improving?

SO often does one hear this question concerning the improvements upon inter-scholastic athletics. I might mention right here taking all in all that amateur athletics are now being conducted on a much higher plane than ever before, especially since the World War.

It is self-evident to every man that has been a student of athletics for any considerable length of time that the conditions are far better than at any time before, but today you find some people that do not agree with you. One then must produce a few facts that will tend to prove it.

In the first place players today have a finer regard for rules than they did several years ago. You will not find as many penalties inflicted for holding, unnecessary roughness and unsportsman-like conduct as was prevalent in past years.

In the second place rivals are not treated as enemies but are considered as friendly competitors. Nowadays visiting teams and followers are met upon arrival by representatives of the school and shown all courtesies that are due them while they are in the city. In the earlier days fights between rival crowds were not uncommon but today such things seldom occur.

In the third place, in the last few years a great many High School Athletic Associations have been created for the improvement of athletics. These organizations are formed to rid the high schools of professionalism, recruiting, gambling and the like. Also the members have conducted educational programs designed to teach students and followers the meaning of sportmanship and respect for the rules.

The Ohio Scholastic Association have elected and employed a man to act as The Ohio Athletic Commissioner whose duty is to see that all schools in the associations adhere strictly to the rules and to settle all disputes that arise among the various high schools.

The Varsity "G" Association

HOWARD TILLMAN, President
DAN WITTERS, Vice-President
ROBERT STARR, Secretary
GEORGE EIDSON, Treasurer

THE Varsity "G" Association is made up of Men in school who have been awarded a "G" by the Athletic Board of Control for service in some department of interscholastic athletics.

The purpose of this organization is to keep the men engaged in the different sports a great deal, to do all in its power to create a spirit of good sportsmanship among the students of Greenville High School, and to discuss and propose the adoption of all measures whereby the school can be bettered in an athletic way.

The annual banquet and initiation of the Association is an event which is looked forward to with great pleasure by all of the members, both alumni and students, as well as the men of the faculty. This year the banquet will be held on April 17 in order that the "G" members who are in college may be present.

Many new "G" men have been created as a result of this year's athletics. We are sure that these men will be just as loyal to the athletic cause of G. H. S. as the wearers of the "G" have been before them.

Miss Lindsey: Jack, are you chewing gum again?
Jack C. (quickly swallowing gum): No, mam.

George W: There's Sarah. She was shot in the grandstand.
George E: Huh! I thought she was shot in the knee.

Mr. Allen: Agnes, when did the Constitution go into effect?
Agnes: I imagine in 1788.
Mr. Allen: You have a vivid imagination. Now can you imagine the last state to ratify it?

Freshie: What is the most industrial city in Ohio?
Jerome G.: Chicago, I think.

Mr. Allen: What was Conway's Cabal?
Josephine B.: Conway's Cabal was a favorite dish prepared by Mr. Conway, the cook, for Louis XIV.

THEIR MOST IMPORTANT LESSON

Of what use even arithmetic if they aren't learning health?

Do you realize that just one morning's work at the blackboard uses up 653 Calories of a growing child's energy? Disaster soon follows unless this is amply replaced by food.

Important to Parents: You can replace it simply, beautifully, scientifically with—

OVER the north doorway to St. Pauls, London, is a tablet, bearing the name of Sir Christopher Wren, architect of the cathedral, and this inscription in Latin—"If you would seek his monument, look about you."

In calling attention to the quality of our work, we would paraphase the immortal inscription quoted above and invite the reader to "look through this book." The halftone reproductions were produced in our plant.

Our service for the advertiser consists of plan, copy writing, illustration in line or wash and plates for printing in one or more colors.
